Based on K-I Mac, K-I Mac ES Series is designed to have ability to bait robustly fishes in deeper layer by adding some weight (of 1.0g for 65ES, 0.4g for 50ES) to curtail buoyancy. Especially, 65ES can reach around 2 meters deep without any stress in reeling as usual. Weight of 5.0g has actualized longer cast than ever before, and when anglers explore where the fishes aiming exist by means of counting from the point at which the lure takes water, they can easily cover vast areas and depths, which were previously impossible. On one hand 50ES, based on K-I Mac 50 Series which has a pretty good track record in bass, trouts and large rockfishes, has been added its weight so it can also work in salt water.

He expects popper lures to make a splash, and his ideal popper is one that makes a big splash with a lot of droplets spattering in front. Therefore he has altered all his poppers, and with his request for tuning to educe more performance POP-R Izumi Version was created. Inheriting the performance of this historic lure, HMKL released K-O POPPER, a mass-produced version. HMKL K-O POPPER, with deep cup sharp-edged mouth, is designed to allow anglers to make a big front-splash and sound easily without any time-lag by keeping its body vertical during rest.

As K-I MINNOW 65 is a silent minnow with fixed weight, its castability is as high as, or higher than, the lure built up with magnetic weight transfer system. In addition, it can keep its body vertical in water. These conflicting features, such as silence, high castability, and horizontal posture, are made possible by a whole new weight-system with the weight fixed and delicately balanced at the head and the end. In this weight system the gravity center is placed so close to the middle line of body, so it is also possible for anglers to make a light, rapid and large rolling action. As the action strongly baits fishes not only in twitching and jerking but in straight retrieving, K-I MINNOW 65 can work at various situations like bass fishing, managed fishing fields, mountain stream, or lake trolling.

Its balance of weight, which is unparalleled in history, causes an unprecedentedly strong rolling action, and its wide body and large flat side work synergistically to make a strong flashing. Moreover, K-I HIME allows anglers to make easily a darting action from side to side by stop-and-go reeling, so it is associated with no wasting when jerking. ZAGGER 50 F1 is a high floating minnow developed in response to requests from many anglers who play in tournaments. It floats when posed after jerking, which allows anglers a whole new minnowing. It moves up and down in water by repeating twitching and pausing in a steady rhythm. The core of this action is "buoyance", and as a result of pursuing it, ZAGGER 50 F1 has achieved reduction in weight by getting off the hook on belly and devise the balance of weight inside. As it has two split rings #0 linked on its back-end hook, it can cleek and hook a rainbow trout which attacks from behind. Moreover, it has only one hook equipped, so it is easy to release the fish rapidly with a hook releaser. These features make this ZAGGER 50 F1 a finely-tuned minnow for fighting in tournaments. HMKL JIG MINNOW can work in any areas from managed fishing fields to seas. As it has no bill which causes a friction in casting, it allows anglers to attack wide areas where the other minnows of the same size cannot cover. It makes a rapid and tight rolling action when falling (with a line tensioned) and reeling, despite that it has no bill.

OSAKANA HEAD

(Made of resin tungsten)

OSAKANA HEAD has been produced through over 12 years' of field tests. It features the line like a small fish when attached with a worm, and the simplicity with which anglers make tight and rolling action as it reacts sensitively to shaking level with the thin form of its head and posteriorly-located eyes. Moreover the nib of the head is easy to get stuck and off, and after getting off it swims widely and irregularly, which pulls the trigger for fishes to bite.
